

Veterans Health CouncilSM

improving veterans health through information and advocacy

What is the Veterans Health Council?

The mission of the Council is to improve veterans health by creating an ongoing forum for health professions, employee representatives, advocacy organizations, and health-care firms to discuss, develop, and promote efforts to:

- inform veterans and their families about health risks associated with military service and care available to them;
- educate health-care communities about the multiple health issues associated with military service;
- develop educational materials for medical schools, nursing schools, teaching hospitals, and related outlets; and
- advocate on behalf of veterans health-care initiatives.
