Vietnam Veterans of America and Campaign Endorsements

(Washington, D.C.) – Vietnam Veterans of America National President Jack McManus noted today that VVA may not make any endorsements of political candidates for any elected office. “VVA's Constitution and our not-for-profit tax status strictly prohibit the national organization, as well as local VVA chapters and VVA state councils, from making any such endorsements. Occasionally, confusion arises when individual VVA members — who are often very politically active — are identified as representatives of our organization. To preclude any misunderstandings, as required by our membership, we must periodically get the word out to clarify the record,” McManus said.

“The federal tax code is very clear in this regard, and any implication of improper activities could cause us to lose our tax exemption and not-for-profit status. As long as no VVA endorsement of a political candidate is given or implied, individual VVA members are encouraged to participate in the political process. As private citizens, we have every right to do so,” said McManus.

“For those traveling to our Nation’s capital for the 40th anniversary of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, please be mindful that Election Day is Tuesday, November 8, and consider voting by absentee ballot,” noted McManus.

Vietnam Veterans of America, founded in 1978, was formed in large part to fight for laws and policies to ensure that Vietnam veterans receive the help they have earned and need. With chapters and state councils nationwide, VVA is the only Congressionally chartered national Vietnam veterans organization exclusively comprised of Vietnam-era veterans. VVA's commitment to all veterans is exemplified in its founding principle, "Never again will one generation of veterans abandon another," and continues to maintain advocacy in the veterans affairs arena as its top priority.
